Sunday Sermons

7/22 TODAY, 11:00AM – “Summertime”

Rev. Dr. Stephen Butler Murray, Minister

In 1991, the song that dominated the airwaves was "Summertime" by DJ Jazzy Jeff and The Fresh Prince. This was Will Smith's contemporary meditation on "Summer Madness" by Kool & the Gang. Fast forward 27 years, and what does Summertime mean to us now? How might the lyrics of someone bathed in the blasting fire hydrants of Philadelphia mean to a city where water is turned off, where there is no respite from the heat? How do we deal with Summer Madness?

7/29 11:00AM – “Exploring the Wisdom of Mary Oliver”

Tonya Wells, Guest Speaker

Mary Oliver is an American poet whose work reflects a deep communion with the natural world. Her poetry is beautifully simple, concise and accessible and has been included in Unitarian Universalist worship for decades because the messages in her poems align so closely with UU principles. Tonya Wells, Worship Chair, Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church, will delve into the wisdom of Ms. Oliver's poetry and share ways the poetry inspires her to live her life more intentionally. Tonya Wells has been a member at Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church (GPUC) since 2009, has served on their worship committee and has been chair of it for the majority of her tenure. Tonya enjoys leading worship and has delivered sermons to her Congregation on an annual basis.
