Sunday Sermons and Events

TODAY, 10/29: 11:00AM – The Haunting Season

Reverend Dr. Stephen Butler Murray

As we approach Halloween, I will explore the idea of ghosts and hauntings. Why do we find the idea of the supernatural to be so pervasive?

11/5: 11:00AM – Me Too

Reverend Dr. Stephen Butler Murray

When it was revealed that Harvey Weinstein, one of the most powerful producers in Hollywood, had long been using his power and influence to sexually harass and assault aspiring actresses, a powerful movement on Facebook began with women who themselves had experienced sexual harassment or assault simply stating, "Me Too." This was done as an act of self-empowerment, but also to demonstrate to men just how many of the women that they know have lived through such abuse, the answer being that such experiences are almost universal. How do we move forward as a society in which so few men believe that they have acted inappropriately, while so many women have suffered the violation of such treatment?

11/12: 11:00AM – Race in America

Reverend Dr. Stephen Butler Murray

A month ago, Stephen Henderson came to our church and delivered an important message about race in America. Following the service, eight members of our church asked me to do a sermon in response to Henderson. This is my response.

11/19: 11:00AM - How We Die

Reverend Ken Phifer, Guest Minister

The two most important themes human beings must deal with are Life and Death. Mostly we prefer, understandably, to deal with the former and avoid the latter until we are confronted with our own mortality or that of someone we care for. But in so many ways, the discussion of death and of how we die is as important as any topic of life itself. In this new age of remarkable medical technologies and pharmaceutical wonders, it matters greatly that we think about death and dying and how we want to confront these inevitable matters. My sermon will deal with some of these issues, based on more than 45 years of pastoral experience and 79 years of just living!

Ken Phifer was for 25 years the senior minister of the Ann Arbor UU Congregation.
